Caryn Gardner Young reported on the recommendations of the Rising Water Task Force.

Their goals included:

1. Be proactive
2. Plan adaptation comprehensively
3. Allocate monetary resources
4. Leverage insurance products
5. Educate the public
6. Harness economic development

Missie Barletto of the Public Works Department gave a power point presentation. She stated that the city now has a stormwater engineer on staff, as well as a sustainability officer. They are assessing the vulnerability of the rising sea level.

The Mayor and Commissioners had several questions of the staff. Mayor Glickstein brought up the idea of building artificial reefs off the coast of Florida. Commissioner Petrolia mentioned a coral that survives in warmer water that could possibly help the situation.

There being no further business to discuss, Mayor Glickstein adjourned the meeting at 7:25 p.m.
