Duties

SZC, LLC, a boutique consulting firm that worked on the behalf of its clients to address complex and challenging problems within a company's administrative functions. SZC, LLC acted as an extension of its client's management team and brought expertise in the areas of Financial and IT Management, Finance Transformation, ERP Project Management, Team Development, Process Reengineering/Optimization and Interim staffing. Clients and projects included:

Fortune 100 Company
Accounting Remediation
$30B Global Energy company experiencing fluctuations with the valuation of its inventory as calculated between its Trading and Risk Management system and its ERP system. These fluctuations were material in nature, unexpected, recurring and, due to the available level of data, unexplainable by the Finance group. After three failed attempts to resolve this issue internally, I was asked to lead a cross functional team to address this complex issue. The solution that was developed required significant changes to the company's accounting processes, changes to the configuration of both systems involved, technology to be leveraged to reduce manual activities and extensive training of the more than 50 employees in multiple departments across the company that were involved in this function.

Expanse Energy Solutions

Finance Transformation

Expanse Energy is a Private Equity backed company that made nine acquisitions in rapid succession. I was asked to lead a project to transform and improve the Finance Function within the company. I assumed the role of Interim CIO to lead the transformation effort, lead the ERP implementation, improve the operations of the Finance and IT functions and to create a strategy for Expanse to leverage new reporting technologies to gain a competitive advantage in the marketplace. I worked jointly with the CEO, CFO and other members of the executive team to create a vision for a new Finance Organization and a process to align numerous corporate initiatives to meet Expanse's operational strategy.

Tri-Point Resources

Finance Transformation/Merger Integration

After successfully implementing the Transformation Project on time and under budget at Expanse Energy, I was asked to lead a similar project at a sister portfolio company, Tri-Point Resources. Tri-Point is Private Equity backed company formed in 2016 and had made four acquisitions. The objective of the Transformation Project at Tri-Point was to leverage a world class accounting system platform to support future acquisitions while integrating the four acquisitions that had already been executed. The focus of the project was to increase the speed and accuracy of the monthly Financial Closing process and to improve their financial reporting capabilities.

Hours worked per week: 40

Duties

Maxum Petroleum is the largest distributor of diesel fuel and refined lubricates in North America with revenues in excess of $5b annually and it has a fleet of over 1,000 vehicles. Maxum was formed in 2001 by a group of Private Equity funds and made fourteen acquisitions since its inception. For multiple years the acquired companies were run independently by the legacy management of the companies acquired. This decentralized structure did not naturally provide for leverage in buying power or the ability to service customers on a national footprint. I was asked to join Maxum with my primary role being to build their "finance function of the future" as the Executive Sponsor for their Organizational Transformation Initiative, Project One. This initiative transformed Maxum Petroleum's Finance organization from a decentralized organizational structure to a three tiered structure consisting of:

Corporate functions for Finance, Information Technology, Purchasing, Legal, HR, HS&E and Tax
Shared Service functions for A/P, A/R, Credit & Collections and Fixed Asset Accounting

Regional functions for Customer Service/Order Entry and Transportation Management

The foundation of this transformation was the adoption and implementation of a common platform; SAP.

I had served in a consulting role to Maxum for two years prior to when they asked me to join their executive team as CIO and to lead Project One. In my role as EVP, I reported directly to the CEO, led the IT group and managed the $55M Project One Finance Transformation initiative.

Accomplishments included:

Architected the design as well as developed and managed the budget for the $55mm initiative build Maxum's finance function of the future

Rationalizing Customer Pricing for one of our three divisions resulting in an increase of our Gross Profit while reducing our pricing matrix from over 1,500 price scenarios to fewer than 300

Developed and implemented a Transaction Profitability model and reporting structure that measured profitability by fifteen attributes and changed the way the Executive Team managed

the company and compensated its employees
Improved our Billing cycle times, standardize processes and improve internal controls.

Through these actions, the company identified synergies across the business Functions and Divisions yielding improvements of $19.6m to EBITDA and a working capital improvement of $70m.

After successfully turning around KBR's troubled ERP implementation and delivering it on schedule and 11% under budget, the Executive team asked me to fill the newly created role of CIO. The CIO role was being created as KBR was in the process of separating from its former parent company, Halliburton, and needed to establish its own corporate functions. In addition to managing a team of over 1,000 resource and an operating budget of $250mm, I was also responsible for the oversight of an annually discretionary Capital Budget ranging from $80mm to $120mm.
