24. Q: How does your education or experience compliment the powers and duties of the Board?

A: My early passion for marine biology has transformed into a fascination for the complex environmental systems linking together the natural world and human society. I work to show the visitors our intrinsic dependence on the ocean through tourism economies, food security, global health, and biomedicine. More importantly, I provide them tangible ways to reduce our human impact and ameliorate negative environmental changes. Not only has volunteering helped me educate other people, but it has also led me to a realization of how I hope to improve communities of all scales.

I have worked to incorporate what I learn and experience as a volunteer back into my school work. Through my political sciences courses I've elected to take in high school and in summer programs, I have developed a passion for constitutional debate and policy formulation. As a student who loves Montesquieu and mock trial as much as bioluminescence and barrier reefs, these two interests might seem incompatible. However, volunteering has allowed me to see how these interests are not only connected, but also essential to solving issues of environmental sustainability. I intend to study environmental sciences and work in environmental policy. I hope to push the boundaries of our scientific knowledge as well as shape the laws that enact change.

3. Q: List any experience that would assist you in serving on this committee, board, commission, or authority

A: I have been volunteering at Gumbo Limbo Nature Center as an Aquarium Guide since my Sophomore year of high school. I work at the four outdoor aquarium tanks teaching visitors about the exhibits and answering any questions they might have. Each session to volunteer is a four hour period. As I dedicated more time to volunteering, I became incredibly knowledgeable about the species in the tanks as well as what each tank represented in terms of a coastal ecosystem. Soon, I started teaching fellow volunteers about the tank inhabitants and the best ways to communicate with a wide diversity of visitors. I also have worked several special events for Gumbo Limbo including Sea Turtle Day, in which thousands of people pass through the exhibits, and "Halloween in the Garden", in which I helped as a face painter. This past summer I also helped the Sea Turtle Rehab program in a sea turtle hatchling release to send about 300 baby turtles off into the night sea for a second chance at survival. I worked to guide several visitors as well in this experience.

My responsibilities have now culminated into becoming the speaker for the Saturday 12:30 feeding presentation of the aquariums, giving a 30 minute talk about 40 to 250 people each week. I prepare frozen squid and krill to feed the animals, as well as monitor the water quality and animal health in each tank. This was a large undertaking that required many hours of learning how to be an Aquarist Assistant to the biologists and ecologists working at Gumbo Limbo.

Although not affiliated with Gumbo Limbo's volunteer program, I also have volunteered at Gumbo Limbo's Marine Research Facility with an FAU ecology professor, Dr. Koch, investigating how seaweed indicates the effects of climate change on coral reefs. In my feeding presentations, I proudly stand in a large crowd with the confidence knowing they look to me as a figure of expertise in marine life and environmental stewardship. I focus on sharing the small actions we can individually take to limit human impact on mangroves and coral reefs. Whether I'm explaining how certain (avoidable) sunscreen chemicals strain the symbiotic relationship between corals and algae or speaking about local artificial reefs families can visit, I can feel the impact of my volunteer work. At the end of my speech, I often receive applause from the visitors. I can't help but smile when seeing how I am able to convey imperative issues while expressing something I'm passionate about to hundreds of people.

- 4. Q: Please indicate any activities you are involved with that may present a conflict of interest with the committee, board, commission, or authority you are applying for.

A: I will hopefully be working at a local store in Delray part time this summer. I will also hope to continue my volunteer work at Gumbo Limbo this summer working in the Sea Turtle Rehabilitation Center. While I am going to Columbia University next year for college, I am happy to maintain current with local issues and engage via online communications with the Board in addition to my breaks throughout the year when I can return home.

- 5. Q: How did you hear about the vacancy on this committee, board, commission, or authority?

A: City Commission Member
Other

- 6. Q: If "other" was selected for question #6, please describe here.

A: Caryn Gardner-Young, ICMA-CM. | Assistant City Manager
I wrote a letter to the City Manager inquiring about Delray's recent legislation and initiative to ban plastic straws. I explained my view of the imperative need to also ban plastics before sea turtle nesting season this summer. Mrs. Garden-Young was nice enough to not only respond so attentively to my concerns, but also told me about the Green Implementation Advisory Board opportunity.

- 7. Q: Why do you want to serve on this committee, board or commission?

A: I am passionate about environmental sustainability, and I have found an incredible way to share this passion with tangible sense of bettering my local community. Volunteering at Gumbo Limbo Nature Center as an aquarium educator for the public has allowed me the opportunity to develop into an effective public speaker and vocal advocate of environmental change. I have been exposed me to the world of environmental stewardship, and in turn I am given a weekly chance to do the same to hundreds of people.

I would be honored to serve my community of Delray as it continues to serve as a model city for environmental sustainability. I am a hardworking, driven citizen who will fully dedicate myself in any way that would help better the community.

- 8. Q: What unique abilities/skillset/perspective would you bring if selected?

A: As a young citizen of this city, I will bring a new perspective of how to connect directly with future generations and residents of this city. I have experience interacting with a wide range of people and teaching them about how our society is deeply dependent on the environment, specifically marine ecosystems. I am self-assured in my abilities to share my viewpoints with respectful persuasion, while being open to hearing from all other viewpoints. I love to cooperate to achieve a goal, and I am a resourceful team member. I work very well with others, and throughout high school I have proven myself as a natural leader both in and out of class. I am a top academic student, which I largely attribute to my self-motivated work ethic and genuine passion for learning. I am resourceful and eager to find creative solutions to difficult problems or situations. I have been recognized for my contributions to the classroom, my school, and the greater community in receiving the Clara Coleman Grant, which is an award granted to a singular rising senior on the basis of exemplifying character, leadership, and integrity. I run the Science National Honors Society branch at my school. I worked to create implement an after-school program for lower school students of my school specifically for science lesson plans and activities. This required cooperation with faculty and administrators of various levels at my school. The program is successful, and it is a legacy I am proud to leave behind as I go off to college next year. I served for all my years of high school on our Honor Court. As the only grade representative, I work alongside this student-faculty committee to establish and determine consequences of cheating or plagiarism. I work closely with the administrators of my school to achieve our goals. Gaining experience to oversee cases has allowed me to redirect the Court towards proactively conveying the merits of academic pride prior to reaching disciplinary action. Now as Chair, I speak at school assemblies to clarify expectations and help teachers define equal collaboration. Working on the Court allows me to actively demonstrate integrity and empathy, developing character that carries significance far beyond the classroom. I will bring this ability to deliberate hard topics with a rational, comprehensive approach to the Board.

9. Q: Please describe your understanding of the functions and capacity of the board(s), committee(s), or commission to which you are applying?

A: I am fully aware of the time commitment needed to substantively contribute to the Green Implementation Advisory Board. I am ready and able to serve in all meetings as well as various events needed to conduct proper business. I am confident in my abilities to contribute to discussions and meetings about environmental issues and public engagement of any green initiatives/programs. While I am home full time for this upcoming summer, I am willing (and excited) to continue working with the Board throughout the school year while I attend Columbia University. Through Skype or other methods of contact, I am comfortable with maintaining a strong presence in contributing to the Board's community involvement beyond when I am able to be home for various holidays or breaks.

10. Q: Have you ever attended a meeting of the board or committee for which you are applying?

A: No

11. Q: I understand that by applying to this committee, board, commission, or authority, I am offering a reasonable portion of my time to the City of Delray Beach and the requirements that accompany this position, including, but not limited to, routine meetings, hearings and responsiveness to the public.

A: Yes, I understand
