W. D. Higginbotham, representing the Mercer Group, provided an overview of the current status of the City Manager selection process. Mr. Higginbotham said that the three semi-finalist candidates were listed alphabetically, rather than in rank order. Mr. Higginbotham said he could either respond to questions or provide detailed information about the three short-listed candidates.

Mr. Higginbotham said he encouraged members of the City Commission to contact him with questions about individual candidates. Mayor Glickstein noted that Mr. Higginbotham's job was to synthesize characteristics and qualities of the highest-ranked candidates. Mr. Higginbotham responded to questions from the Mayor and City Commissioners.

Commissioner Katz said he hoped that there was one candidate who was agreeable to all five members of the City Commission. Mr. Higginbotham said it was important for the members of the City Commission to speak to the candidates in individual meetings. Mayor Glickstein said that there were several reasons why the number of candidates was quite low, including the upcoming holidays, the robust labor market and the upcoming City Commission election in March. There was City Commission consensus to move forward three candidates, removing Mr. Thompson's name, and adding Mr. Niemeyer. Mr. Higginbotham said that he would continue with background work on the three candidates. He noted that if the City Commission were unable to agree on a City Manager, it would be necessary to re-open the process. Mayor Glickstein urged the City Commission to remain optimistic. Mr. Higginbotham concurred, stating that the City Commission would very likely find a City Manager in the field of the final three candidates. There being no further business, Mayor Glickstein declared the workshop session closed at 5:42 p.m.
